"Ghosts wandering here and there""

As the fall mists roll back over the Ridley camis, two gray figures can be seen by the discerning eye in the half light of dawn. They are pacing the grounds, deep in conversation, as they have done for generations. The one, the shorter and bearded, does most of the talking as he stabs the air pointing at different features. The other, taller, darker and pipe-smoking, frequently gestures enthusiastic agreement. Things are working out as they planned. The spectres of Dr. Miller and his old friend "Rep" Williams nod in approval as they pass the Second Century Building. They are heading towards the Middle School on one of their regular tours of inspection, picking their way between the builders' accoutrements.

This will be the third Middle (or "Lower") School. The first, opened in 1899 at a cost of $16,000 (raised by generous donations, notably from the Gooderhams), had been con-hived partly as a strategy of the Doctor's to etain the services of "Rep," installing him as Director to prevent him being lured away. He had described it to the Board as "the most modern and up-to-date school building in Canada," though—if truth be told—it lacked much by way of conveniences for even those Spartan times, and the students described themselves as "the coldest boys south of Baffin Land," The second was completed in 1927 at a seemingly exorbitant cost of $400,000. This familiar, Georgian-style building still dominates the southern perimeter, owing its existence largely to the extraordinary generosity of Colonel Leonard who provided half the money. Little has changed over three-quarters of a century. Despite all the fibre optic wizardry of the Information Age and the trappings of co-education, both of which our two silent observers have embraced with surprising favour, there remains, they admit, more than a whiff of the 1920's about the corridors and basement areas.

So things are to change, and about time too. Ilumni Hall is to be born in 2002. The two make their heads in disbelief at the $6 million price tag. But like its two predecessors, the third incarnation of this edifice will owe its existence to the generosity of donors, who – just as before —have so far contributed over half the cost. The much beloved north-facing facade will be untouched, but the guts will be substantially transformed into a teaching jewel. "Rep," hailed as the Master-teacher of his generation, has argued with "The Boss" long into the small hours that the changes are essential and long overdue.

Both men rejoiced at the fundraising Gala held under the Prize Day marquee on June 23, 2001. The Doctor sighed wistfully at its name, the "Black & Orange:" how long ago that romantic evening now seemed! They recognized something of the spirit abroad at the Gala: it reminded them a little of the prevailing spirit at the Cross Country Dinner and dancing lessons which they had inaugurated exactly a hundred years ago. This time, however, recent graduates were present, along with Faculty and over three hundred guests: what a fine crop the grads seemed.

They were astounded as non-skiers bought skiing packages, teetotallers bid up on fine wines, and the Middle School disappeared in a pyrotechnic extravaganza. It was one of those special, once-ageneration occasions, which no one present would forget.....certainly not the two shadowy figures in the corner, enjoying a nightcap and a chat together, drinking in the bonhomie and confidence in the future of Ridley heralded by such goings on. This auction was no place for "petrified wrens." Here indeed would be "the most modern, up-to-date school building in Canada." The Doctor gave one of his rare smiles of approval (though not during the belly-dancing), and the two slapped each other on the shoulder as they slipped unnoticed into the night.

The usual variety of challenges and accomplishments marked the calendar of Lent and Trinity terms here at Ridley. In the debating and public speaking circles we witnessed the Upper School Public Speaking Competition with distinguished performances by Danielle Galange '04 in the Junior Division, Robyn Farmer '01, first in the Senior Division and Edwin Yu '02 in second place. Diana Bentley '03 was the winner of the Dramatic Monologue.

The annual Valentine Debate was a showcase to the student body of Upper School of the talent that lies within. The Government team of Geoff Grove '01 and Michael Bonner '01 faced vociferous opposition from the combined talents of Rhiannon Davies '01 and Edwin Yu '02 with the decision of the judges favouring the Opposition team. As is customary in this debate, the best debater was chosen with Geoff Grove being awarded the Terence Cronyn Trophy for the top performance in the event.

At the Ontario Student Debate Union (OSDU) Regional Debate in February, Rhiannon Davies placed first overall, followed by Geoff Grove, Ian Davies '03, and Edwin Yu, who all placed respectfully. Diarra Smith '01 and Marcie Lewis '03 each achieved very good results in their first competitive debates.

The top five rankings proceeded to the provincial ebate.

At the OSDU Provincial Finals in March, Edwin Yu, Rhiannon Davies, and Ian Davies competed in the English language category of the debate that questioned the urban revitalization of downtown cores in mid-sized Ontario cities. Each Ridley representative enjoyed successful rounds of debate, with Ian Davies finishing an impressive 21st in a field of very accomplished debaters.

At the Nora McCrae Public Speaking Competition in April, Robyn Farmer '01 and Sean Porter '05 represented Ridley College at this unique tournament featuring over 60 competitors vying for honours in seven events over three different categories of the speaking arts. Robyn Farmer placed second overall with her first place in Interpretive Reading which warranted an encore performance during the showcase portion at the end of the day. Sean Porter placed fifth overall in the junior division; his showcase After-Dinner speech on Dr. Seuss brought the house down.

In May, Ridley College sent the formidable junior team of Alex Petrocci '03, Jimmy Turner '04, Ted Witzel '03, Steven Schadinger '03, Alan Hamilton '03, Jay Willmot '03 and Akshay Shetty 4 to the School Reach Championship of the Niagara Region. Ridley completed the round-robin portion of the league play with a record of five wins and three losses, putting the team in 4th place.

Ridley quickly disposed of their first two opponents in tournament play and then had to meet the undefeated and 1st place team from South Lincoln. In a closely contested match, Ridley emerged victorious.

In the final match for the championship, Ridley had to face Governor Simcoe, a local team that had defeated Ridley soundly in league play. Governor Simcoe took an early lead and it looked doubtful for the Ridley squad as they fell behind by 70 points midway through the 2nd round. However, a superb answer by Ted Witzel '03 on a 40-point question proved to be the turning point as Ridley finally gained the lead by the end of the 2nd round and finished strongly to win by 100 points. Congratulations also go to Ian Davies '03 and Graham Jenner '04 who helped the team to its 4th place finish in league play but were not available to continue in the competition as they were called to help their rugby team win two matches.

In the domain of arts, music and drama production, a dynamic two terms brought the talents of our students to the forefront. In January, the OAC drama of "Abigail is Leaving" was delivered with a polished performance of a complex scenario and difficult concept. Thanks and commendation to Jon Elkin '02, Mike Shaver '01, Jason Davenport '02 and Geoff Calvert '01, for their efforts and many hours in the booth ensuring a smooth production and skilled running of the show.

February's chill and dreary skies were forgotten with the anticipation and ultimately great entertainment of "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum," skillfully directed by Ms. Penny Steele and ably assisted by Paul Maynard, Giles Campbell, Clyde Dawson, James Nesbitt and a host of other indispensable and devoted individuals who brought the show to the stage. The talents of Diana Bentley '03, Jasmine Furbert '03, Olivia Jackson '03, Julia Kindellan '03, Danielle Paolone '04, Sydney Southam '02, Nadine Samee '04, Nastassia Appleyard '03, Michael Bonner '01, Phil Han '01, Colt Iggulden '03, Kate Kormos '01, Sean Moir '03, Sean Porter '05, Steven Schadinger '03, Paul Terner (a.k.a. Rupert Lane), Lawrie Hamilton '02, Amanda Ballard '02, Tara Han '02, Meaghan Munholland '02, and Ruth Abraham '03 brought this play to life.

The OAC Drama class was again honing their talents with the presentation of "The Dining Room" by A.R. Gurney. Following their presentation to the school they performed at the Independent Schools Drama Festival at Lakefield School.

More entertainment was shared with the Ridley community through the talent of the visual and performing arts students with their eclectic and accomplished Arts Night. The instrumental and vocal music, the dance and all the displays of student work were testament to the depth of talent in the student population. Congratulations in particular to Jasmine Furbert '03 and Tonika Carey '01 who clearly demonstrated why they were chosen as the winners of the Dorothy Burgoyne Doolittle Award for Dance. Following on the heels of this display of talent, the school was further treated to the annual combined event of entertainment and fund raising for Amnesty International. It was an evening of diversity and enjoyment capping off a year of dedicated efforts to the cause of Amnesty International.

The final event of drama was a combined effort from Ms. Steele's Grade 12 class and Mr. Brezicki's OAC Drama class for a varied and entertaining night of theatre of diverse and polished performances. Special thanks are extended to Mr. Doug Anderson, Mr. Donal Foley, Jenn Peat '01, Cecilia Wasczcuk '00 and Jon Elkin '02 for their help and expertise in the booth and backstage.

On the musical front, The Ridley College Jazz 'B' Band, led by Mr. Clyde Dawson, competed in Ottawa in CanadaFest, a national competition for all bands, choirs, and ensembles who previously qualified in their respective regional competitions. The Band received a silver medal in the Intermediate Jazz Band category entertaining the audience and adjudicators with musical prowess and theatrical antics. The event was a great social and musical time during which the students were able to hear some of the top high school jazz bands in Canada as well as the Maynooth Jazz Band and the Canadian Armed Forces Central Band. Special mention of Takashi Yoshida '03 who was awarded the distinguished CanadaFest Achievement Award for his outstanding leadership in the trumpet section and his superb solo performance during the Band's ballad selection. Special mention as well of the multifaceted talents and dedication of Gavin Hamilton '03, Mike Fraser '01, and Keddy Chandran '03 who stepped in to replace Steven Schadinger '03, Jay Willmot '03, and Ayo Faohunda '03 who were dividing their abilities between commitments to both Jazz Band and either rowing or track and field. Special mention of appreciation to Adam Durham '02 who competed with the Band on the Saturday, then flew back to Toronto that very afternoon in time to play in the victorious championship Lacrosse game at Ridley College! Congratulations to all!

The Jazz 'A' Band finished their season with a final concert at Ontario Place in Toronto on the Festival Theatre stage. The band played well for the adjudicator, Sir William Hughes, Director of the Burlington Teen Tour Band. The Band was indebted to Jay Willmot who stepped in to replace Simon Haworth '03 and his broken wrist. The graduating members will be missed next year and it is hoped that they will lend their talents to other bands in the future.

The final months of school were sprinkled with outstanding academic achievements with noted accomplishments by Alissa Mohammed '01 who took the 2nd place prize in the Senior Division of the provincial Ross Morrow Short Story Competition and Jane Hope '02 who won second prize in the Poetry Contest for Grades 11 - OAC, both sponsored by the Conference of Independent Teachers of English. Congratulations to Adam Gravitis '02, Josh Carrier '02, Blaze Sarkisian '02, Anna McNally '02, Ernest Poon '02 and Ben Gittings '02 for their outstanding results in the Provincial Physics Contest. All students placed within the top 14% in the province of Ontario.

The following students were awarded an Academic Tie for achieving over 85% on the Ridley Best Six Interim Marks: Vicky

We applaud the achievement of Jason Pang '01, Steven Wu '01, Keith Wong '02, Loretta Yau '03, and Ernest Poon '02, who, as a team, placed as one of the ten runners-up in the BSPU/South China Morning Post Web Design Competition. The judges lauded the work of the Ridley team claiming it to be an outstanding piece of work in a field of 197 schools.

Ridley's commitment to its motto, Terar Dum Prosim, is noted in the various fund raising efforts of the students. In addition to the previously-mentioned Amnesty International evening of fund raising, the boys of Merritt North House partook in the "Out of the Cold" program in St. Catharines where they helped with dinner set-up and serving as well as conversation and companionship for the evening with the participants in the program. Mr. Kelvin Deacon of Beaver Foods was particularly instrumental in arranging the food for the evening and the boys were outstanding representatives of Ridley College. Gooderham West House raised $750.00 for Breast Cancer research through their Red/White/Pink Day and Bake Sale. Mandeville -Burgoyne House raised $750.00 for Camp Quality, a camp for children with cancer with their Saturday afternoon car wash.

To wrap up the year, the annual Cadet Inspection was held in May. Amid the pageantry, the organization and dedication of troops, commanders, and volunteers, a point of historical fact is to be noted: Michael Iggulden '01, great-grandson of Cap (C.W. Iggulden), grandson of "The Colonel" (A.C. Iggulden) and son of Brian '67, was Commanding Officer of the Ridley College Cadet Corps this year and escorted inspecting officer Colonel John Drake '65 on his tour of the troops. Colonel Drake is the second Honourary Colonel from the London Hussars to inspect the troops. As well, Cadet Inspection welcomed Colonel Jim Thompson '44 who had the pleasure of watching his granddaughter, Gillian Johnson '02, recipient of best female recruit, on parade. The Corps, in its 94th year, remains the largest cadet corps in Canada with almost 600 students on parade.

As is the tradition with this final edition of the View, we bid a heart-felt goodbye and sincere wishes for joy and health as the following members leave Ridley College to follow new avenues in life's adventure: Penny Steele, Richard Wright, Vera Wilcox, Alan Wilcox, Leanne Mladen, Derek Fraser, J.D. Lafrance, Brian Taylor, Wendy Masters, Kellie Burgess, James Frecknall, Joe Lane, Christopher Prosser, and Amy Wilson. A safe and adventurous journey to you all.

MIDDLE SCHOOL

You have new writers this term. The Junior Masters have picked up the quill or mouse and have done their best to cover all the activities of Middle School. The filming of 'The Circle' just before Christmas gave everyone Spielberg fever, all Middle School grades have used the digital camera and iProgrammes to create their own short films. In their own individual and hilarious way they promote the school and can be seen soon on an internet site near you.

It seems the walls of Middle School are bursting at the seams with stage and screen talent. Hilary Crouch '07 and Sean Porter '05 must be noted for their first place awards in the City public speaking finals. Hilary brought the sportsmanship out in all of us with her speech and Sean brought the house down with his amusing and rhyming speech on Dr Zeus.

The term had a hugely successful Arts Festival. During which the choir performed two of the songs they took with them to the Independent Schools Music Festival and also two dance pieces performed by some very talented young ladies. There were also a pair of plays both dealing with suspense and intrigue and finishing with a big surprise. Congratulations to all the students who took part and a special thanks to Leanne Mladen and Sandra Howe.

The Student's Council had another strong year. The Council fulfilled their mandate by arranging a number of great activities for all to enjoy. Some of the most memorable include Theme Day, when the Grade 5 Class took the day with their cross dressing display. Also, the last dance stepped into the 21st century and had the projection of the latest pop videos on the walls. With the maternity leave of Erin Hayakawa, Paul DeVellis and Sandra Howe took over the mentoring duties for the Council and did their part to make this year the success that it was.

This year, the Middle School Community did their part to raise money for a number of charities. The Grade 6 class packed their cell phones and accounts in their briefcases and started the Middle School tuck shop business. And did a reat job with satisfied customers all round. The Junior Masters took on the hopossible challenge (you would agree if you know them) of the 30 Hour Famine. Thanks for all the support from staff and students for making this particular venture a success. Also, all the students took part in the Hoops for Hearts competition raising loads of cash for the Canadian Heart and Stroke Foundation.

In the realm of athletics, our teams performed better than ever this term. Most notably, the Girls soccer team was somewhat of a powerhouse with Rick Cicchine and Sandra Howe at the helm. Sports Day was great fun – despite the fact it was a scorcher of a day. At the end of a great day, the Mohawks won the Tribe competition, but perhaps more important, the Hurons showed tremndous spirit with their impressive display of cheers. Brock Fowler '05 and Corra St Pierre '05 both showed their athletic prowess and were the big winners of the day. Congratulations to all who participated for their hard work, effort and sportsmanship on yet another great Middle School Sports Day.

The last week of school, although short, was extremely busy. Grade 7 and 8 finished writing their last two exams while the Grade 5 and 6 wrapped up their year end activities. For the Grade 8 class, a sense of closure took place Tuesday evening as the Ridley Family Guild helped prepare a wonderful Graduation dinner/dance. The setting was reminiscent of the Australian outback under the theme "Survivor." Thursday, each grade celebrated the year end their own way as the Grades 7 & 8 went to Canada's Wonderland while the Grade 5 and 6 had pool parties. The year was capped off on Prize Day our Valedictorian, Sean Porter presented a one of kind speech entitled (appropriately enough) "Survivor."

So another year comes to a close and another chapter completed in the history of the R.C.M.S. It has been a fabulous year and we wish everyone the best in the years to come and thank you all for making this year one we will cherish d never forget.

GOODNIGHT

The snow crunches under our feet As you tread in my footprints Navigating a slippery path to sanctuary

I fumble with the skeleton key
Warm from my innermost jacket pocket
Worn next to my heart, like a talisman
At least it was kept safe
So we could burst through the door
Into a pool of yellowed light
Which brings colour to our cheeks
Just like the snow outside did.

You say my name. Softly. But it sounds like a drum And I look at you.

I have summer icecream hands
And your mouth is like a rainbow
Bleeding into the world's colour
And then we realize we are uncomfortable
So you say goodnight
And I tell you not to slip
On my icy icy porch
Then you are gone.

My Surprising Win

STEPHANIE PAOLONE EARNS FIRST PLACE IN NIAGARA'S SCIENCE FAIR

by Stephanie Paolone '07

Stephanie's grade six science and design technology class was asked to research and build a homemade ecosystem. Her project entitled "Can Guppies and Snails Survive in a Homemade Ecosystem" had the honour of winning first prize in this year's Niagara Regional Science and Engineering Fair at Brock University. Here's her story.

In eco-systems you have two systems, abiotic and biotic. The abiotic factors that were used in my project included a glass jar with a lid, sand, gravel, tap water, a thermometer, water testers, chlorine remover and a fish figurine. The biotic factors were the plants, the snails and the guppies.

In my ecosystem jar the affected variables were the snails and guppies - their birth and death, the plant growth rate, the amount of algae in the jar and the water pH level. The amount of sunlight, the water temperature and the amount of water, sand and gravel in the jar were the controlled variables.

I hypothesized that the water would change colour and I was right. I thought that all of the guppies and snails would survive but some guppies did die. I feel that the pH level had gone up and down and that may have caused the fish some stress and that is why they died. I conclude that guppies and the snails can survive in a glass jar habitat.

I learned that the ecosystem in my jar is similar to the way the world works. The sun's solar energy allows plants to produce oxygen through photosynthesis. All living organisms need water to survive and from the soil we get our minerals which are passed on to the plants.

In my ecosystem the green plants were used to manufacture food through the process of photosynthesis. The consumers are the guppies. They get their energy by feeding on the plants. Plants and animals also supply organic matter to the soil system by shedding tissues and dying.

The organisms that feed on this organic matter or detritus are called decomposers. In my ecosystem these decomposers are the snails. This organic matter which is consumed by the decomposer will be converted back into inorganic nutrients in the soil. These nutrients can be used by plants for the production of organic compounds.

On March 24th 2001 I attended the Niagara Regional Science and Engineering Fair at Brock University. I was quizzed by three different judges on my knowledge and understanding of my project. In the afternoon they had workshops for all of the participants who attended the fair. There also was a ropes course that I very much enjoyed along with meeting other people.

Soon students like Stephanie will be able to further nurture their love of science in the new Frank Hollinrake science classroom in Alumni Hall (see story on page 24). To support this project please contact the Development Office.

On the evening of April 4th I attended the award ceremony at Centennial Secondary School in Welland. That evening to my surprise I found out I won the Gold Medal for First Place in the Juvenile Division. I was given a large trophy to remain in Middle School for one year, a plaque, a first place red ribbon, a certificate of first place and a cheque for one hundred dollars.

I would like to thank Mr. Taylor, my grade six science teacher, for giving me this opportunity to attend the Science Fair. This experience has made me feel that I can accomplis anything with hard work and it has also made me like science very much.

Cadet Inspection 2001

SCHOOL NEWS

No. 162 ROYAL CANADIAN (ARMY) CADET CORPS 94th REVIEW

2001 marks the ninety-fourth time that No. 162 Cadet Corps has offered itself for an Annual Inspection. Although Company drill was practised at Ridley in the early 1890's under Colonel Thairs, it was not until 1907, when the Corps affiliated with the King's Royal Rifles, that uniforms and rifles appeared and preparations were made for the first Inspection in May 1908.

Over the years, the Corps has grown with the school, and for the most part under the direction of Capt. C.W. Iggulden and his son, Lt. Col. A.C. Iggulden. The Corps now numbers 600 officers and cadets on parade, making No. 162 the largest Cadet Corps in Canada. Cadet activities have changed over the ninety-odd years, with a strong emphasis now on training for better citizenship and positive leadership. Although there is less emphasis on things military, the privilege of leadership, the desire to maintain the tradition of the school, and the experience of a cadet-led corporate activity, undertaken by the whole school are all features which are still alive and flourishing at Ridley College today.

U16 BASKETBALL - CISAA FINALISTS

This was a very busy and rewarding season for one of the better Ridley College U16 basketball teams in the recent past as they ended up with a 29-5 record and as finalists in the CISAA final tournament.

Apart from numerous games against some of the stronger local teams in the Niagara Region, the team hosted the Carl Dorland Tournament, where we were finalists, and also traveled to tournaments in Montreal and Cleveland. The Montreal tournament was one of the season's highlights as the Tigers won an 'edge-of-yourseat' double over-time squeaker against powerhouse Loyola before hammering Lower Canada College in the finals for the championship. The LCC coaches paid the Tigers a well-deserved compliment in presenting the championship trophy by stating that the game had been a real learning experience for their team as nowhere else in the Montreal area was there a team that could provide the type of ferocious defense which the Tigers threw at opponents all game long.

This same passionate defense became the trademark for this edition of the Tigers and carried them all season long, including the semi-finals of the CISAA tournament where the Tigers demolished UCC. In the finals, the Tigers came up against a very strong and talented Crescent squad and unfortunately did not have enough left in their third game of the day to win the championships. Still, it was a very successful season and one that provided a lot of great performances.

First year Tiger, Kevan Quinn '04 came in as a rookie but played like a seasoned veteran at point guard, providing superb ball handling, rebounding and a deft scoring touch all season long. Returning veteran Ayo Fapohunda '03 had another strong year stealing the ball and running the break. The other impact Tigers this season were rookie Chris Iafrate '04 at centre, returning veterans Tony Adderley '03, Matt Lundy '03, Charles Dertinger '03 and the high-flying Cam Takacs '03. Veteran Ian Davies '03 and rookies Tumelo Moleko '03, Omar Tazi '03, Cade Moon '04 and Ransom Hawley '04 rounded out the remainder of the Tiger roster and made great contributions off the bench.

Once again though, the heart and soul of the '00–'01 Tigers was veteran forward, captain and MVP, Bill Gittings '03. Bill once again lead the team by example whether by being the team's leading scorer and rebounder or diving to the floor for loose balls. In several games this season when the going got tough, the Tigers simply resorted to pounding the ball inside to Bill who could be counted on to take the ball to the hoop for two despite having two or more opponents hanging on for the ride.

In closing, the coaches would like to thank the whole team for their hard work and special thanks as well to our faithful spectators for supporting us all season long.

GIRLS' GYMNASTICS - CISAA CHAMPIONS

At 22 girls, this year's was the largest Ridley gymnastics team in years. We competed in three disciplines (artistic, rhythmic, and sports aerobics), and posted strong results in all three. The season opened with the CISAA Artistic championships in early March, where we won both the Senior division and the overall title. The following week, we swept the CISAA Rhythmic championships as well.

The SOSSA championships in early April were more difficult, but still with many individual triumphs. First or second place finishes were posted by Missy Marshall '01, Kate Kormos '01, Tara Han '02, and Alex Petrocci '03. In total, 15 girls qualified for OFSAA, held in Toronto in early May, including the fledgling sport aerobics group (Kate, Vanessa Milot '02, Jane Hope '02 and Mercedes Dziver '03. Top results at OFSAA were achieved by Tara (bronze medal on floor, 7th on beam) and Alex (4th on floor), with other notable performances by Emily Thring '03, Karlina Gravitis '04, Theressa Lecraw '04, and Kate Kormos.

Many thanks go to our two co-captains Kate and Jane for their endless enthusiasm and drive. Congratulations also to the rest of the team; it is a very long season for relatively few competitions, and it takes a special kind of commitment to finish the season with determination.

CO-ED SWIM TEAM - CISAA CHAMPIONS

This year's Co-ed swim season was highly successful. At the CISAA championships the drought finally ended for the Ridley swim team when they claimed the CISAA crown for the first time in five years with a grand total of 589 points, winning by a mere 2 points. They pulled together and competed exceptionally both as individuals and as members of a team. The Junior boys finished 4th overall with 98 points, the Senior boys-5th with 116, Junior Girls-5th with 109 points and the Senior Girls proved themselves to be unstoppable once again as they claimed their divisional crown for the third year in a row and finished with a whopping 266 points. Some outstanding performances include: Victoria Chan '03: four 1sts, Jenn Tocchio '01: two 1sts, 2nd, 4th, Nastassia Appleyard '03: two 1sts, 2nd, Rohini Kumar '02: 1st & 2nd, Tonika Carey '01: two1sts, 3rd, Erin Dunbar '01: 1st, two 3rds, Sarah Galey '02 & Jason McCann '03: two 2nds, 3rd, Brett Rumble '03: had two 1sts & a 2nd. Brett also now holds the CISAA record for 50m Free in the Under 16 Division, which was previously held by Ridleian Heather Dawson '99.

The Ridley Tigers Swim Team competed at the OFSAA championship and ended on an extremely high note. Everyone performed well and as a result met with both personal and team success. Following is how the team performed, Victoria Chan '03: Silver Medal in 100 Free and Bronze Medal in 200 IM, Erin Dunbar '01: 5th, & Rob Mackenzie '02 6th in 100 back, Senior Girls 200 Free Relay: Silver Medal (Jenn Tocchio '01, Joey DeSantis '01, Nastassia Appleyard '03, Tonika Carey '01,) Open Girls 400 Free Relay: Silver Medal (Rohini Kumar '02, Tatiana Skultetyova '01, Brett Rumble '03, Victoria Chan '03), Senior Boys 200 Free Relay: 12th (Keddy Chandran '03, Mike Allen '03, Spencer Crouch '03, Dan Arroyo '01) and the Junior Free Relay: 14th (Meaghan Meredith 3, Tara Han '02, Hedy Stamm '04, Lara Robbins '03). As a team, he girls finished 6th overall, the boys finished 12th and combined they finished 5th out of all of the schools. In the Open Division we finished 5th. This OFSAA championship was truly successful and the team competed far beyond our initial expectations. Congratulations Tigers on a successful season.

'01, Karen Jones '01, Laura Pressey '02 and Annie Bottriell '03. Antje Dittman '02 and Nikki Fowler '02 also played strongly both offensively and defensively. Great setting by Gillian Johnson '02, Courtney Babcock '02, Amanda Ballard '02 and Caitlin Martin '02 helped us to be a powerhouse offensive team. Lindsay Ure '01, Tawyna Fletcher '02 and Diana Bentley '03 provided additional defensive power throughout the year. The entire team's water supply was aptly supplied by the manager Pat Maloney '02. Other highlights of the year were Consolation finalists at the BSS Invitational, and Bronze medal winners at the Brock University Invitational. It was a wonderful year for the team and coaches Erin Hayakawa and Vera Wilcox were very proud of the team! P.S. Thanks for not putting Ms. Hayakawa into premature labour during that semi-final come-from-behind win!!

GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL - CISAA CHAMPIONS

The Senior Girls Volleyball team once again enjoyed a very successful year. In local league play they placed second at the end of the regular season. In the Zone 4 semi-finals, they defeated Thorold in a thrilling match setting up the final against Grimsby. Ridley lost to Grimsby during the regular season 3-1 having very close games. The girls went into Grimsby's gym which was full of fans because they had a buy-out out of class for the final. In a hotly contested match, the Senior Tigers went down to defeat 3-2 thus ending the local league.

In the CISAA league, the Tigers were undefeated posting a 7-0 record and earning the right to host the championships. In an exciting semi-final match, the Tigers were down 2-0 and match point when they roared back to take the third game 26-24 and the fourth game thus setting up a fifth and final game to 15. Being lown again in this game the Tigers clawed their way to the win 15- and a berth in the final! The final game was almost anticlimatic with the Senior girls taking the match and the championship 3-1 against a very talented Lakefield squad. The team was led all year by the attacking and blocking skills of captain Jenna Macfarlane

MIDDLE SCHOOL GYMNASTICS - CISAA CHAMPIONS

It was a most successful and rewarding 2000/2001 Season for the Middle School Girls Gymnastic Team. In conjunction with the Upper School gymnastic squad, we were able to clinch the CISAA Championships (held at Gyro Gym, Mississauga) as well as the CISAA Rhythmic Gymnastic Competition (held at Club Energy, St. Catharines) which was hosted by the Middle School Team. The team's greatest attribute throughout the season was it's desire to improve upon existing skills and to learn new gymnastic tricks which were quickly incorporated into the various floor and beam routines. A blend of old and new gymnasts marked qualities of leadership, as well as a tremendous display of support for one another which was observed throughout the daily training sessions. It was truly a pleasure coaching and overseeing such hard working and highly motivated girls. Congratulations to all members, and especially to Lauren McCann '06 and Morgan Washuta '06, our 2001 Excellence Award recipients.

LACROSSE - CISAA CHAMPIONS

The spring of 2001 will be remembered by Ridley lacrosse players and fans as the school's best showing in twelve years of competition. Having defeated archrivals Upper Canada, St. Andrew's, and St. Michael's in independent school play, Ridley hosted the Ontario High School Lacrosse Championships on June 1st, featuring the six top teams in the province. Ridley edged Lakeshore Catholic (Port Colborne) in overtime 9-8 and Assumption (Burlington) 9-7, earning the right to meet Holy Cross (St. Catharines) in the Ontario final. The final match saw the Tigers soundly defeated 14-2 by possibly the strongest Niagara team ever to compete in high school lacrosse play. (Holy Cross went undefeated all season, and did not win a match by less than 12 goals!) Over the season, Ridley attackmen Mike Iggulden '01, Nick Partington '01, and Geoff Grove '01 provided the scoring punch. while midfielders Brennan Wood '01, John Hopkins '02 and Adam Durham '02 won draws and hustled ground balls. Travis Buckley '02 played with skill and confidence in goal, supported by longsticks Brett Ponejolic '02, Mike Werner '03, Pat Logan '02 and Ryan Shaw '01. Senior Mike Iggulden led the CISAA in scoring, won the team MVP award, and left no doubt that he was one of the premier high school lax players in Ontario. Wood won Unsung Hero honours, and Partington and Hopkins shared the Coaches Award. The Tigers amassed a season record of 14-2-1 (including two wins against Ohio schools), won the CISAA championship, and finished the season as the second-best team in the province. Not a bad couple month's work! Coaches Rickers and Tredway applaud all the players for their talent, competitiveness, and commitment.

1ST XV RUGBY - ZONE 4 CHAMPIONS

OFSAA SILVER MEDALISTS See photo inside back cover Ridley Rugby began early this year, starting a very busy schedule with the England and Wales Tour, on March 6th. Despite the outbreak of Foot and Mouth disease in the areas we were scheduled to visit, the tour went off with great success. We visited Bishopston School in Swansea, Christ's College in Brecon, Monmouth School in Monmouth, Dean Close School in Cheltenham, as well as participating in the National Schools' Seven, in London.

Late March saw us back at Ridley, preparing for the CISAA season. An early game against Upper Canada College was closely contested with Ridley eventually conceding the points in an 8 - 6 decision. Ridley hosted this year's Canadian Independent Schools' Invitational Rugby Tournament, in late April, attended by 28 teams, male and female, from as far apart as Vancouver Island and Windsor, Nova Scotia. This was a huge success, the only shadow being Ridley's defeat in the Championship Final by Trinity College School. The resumption of the CISAA season witnessed a narrow defeat by St. Andrew's College, and a clear victory over Trinity College School. In the play-offs, Ridley lost a fiercely contested game to St. Andrew's College.

Meanwhile, Zone 4 competition was won, with Ridley moving quickly through SOSSA, to the OFSAA finals in Bradford, Ontario. Ridley progressed to the semi-final by winning its pool in the preliminary rounds. In a game that was the highlight of the season, Ridley showed the talent, skills, and determination that had been glimpsed, but never fully revealed, decisively beating the top-seeded side, Weldon D.H.S. In the Championship Final, Ridley began slowly, allowing Stratford Northwestern to seize the initiative and to create a lead that, despite immense effort and determination, proved insurmountable, Although disappointed, winning the Championship Silver Medal was a significant achievement, in a season of "near-misses'.

We had a very mixed season, with high expectations and some disappointing results. We ended on 6th June, exactly three months to the day after flying out on the U.K. Tour. Injuries were greater than normal, with captains James McNally '01 and Mathew Hill '01 early victims. Colin Ruzylo '02, Pat Maloney '02, Mike Allen '03, Chris Potten '02, Keddy Chandran '03, and Juan Van Dulken '01 all spent significant time on the side-line. Many thanks are due to the Administration, Athletics Department, Grounds Crew, Medical and Athletic Therapy personnel for helping us have a successful season.

Over-all, including the U.K. Tour and tournaments, we won 13, lost 10, and tied 1.

TRACK AND FIELD - CISAA SENIOR GIRLS & BOYS CHAMPIONS, OFSSA MEDALIST

What a season! The finale was first class with 6 athletes represented at OFSSA and two Bronze medals taken home by Tumelo Moleko '03 in the Midget 100m Hurdles and Kevan Quinn '04 in the Midget 800m. Dave Tovee '02 secured a place at OFSAA in the Junior 200m and 400m with some fabulous running despite being 'duck-footed'!

Pierre-Marc Robinson '01 repeated his performance from last year making OFSAA in the Senior javelin and Discus and the Midget Boys 4 x 100 team (Moleko, Quinn, Ransom Hawley '04, and Cade Moon '04) who showed great potential from the start of the season, secured their first of many future spots at OFSAA. It certainly was a mercurial ride to the final as we faced many pitfalls along the way, the major of which was discovering that Vicky Bamberger '01 had been trying to run on a multiple fractured tibia - talk about dedication to the cause!. The new British recruit, Robyn Farmer '01 succumbed to hip problems which curtailed her season and Kyle Fowler '03, a promising young thrower, saw his season over by severely twisting his ankle skateboarding.

The Senior Boys and Senior Girls won the CISAA Championship and the overall title could have been ours had not there been DFSAA Regionals that day too. At the Zone 4 Championship, the Boys narrowly missed winning out of a 28 schools represented. It was an enjoyable season, despite the weather, the injuries and chasing athletes from their dorms and the clinic all of which reduced the actual number of training days to a bare minimum. With the team we had this year, had we had more time we would have been unstoppable! Well done everyone!

CHIMES CHALLENGE

At noon on June 5 the school turned out to watch the Chimes Challenge - an event requiring the entrants to run around the front circle of the school while the clock strikes 12. This year saw seven boys and six girls challenge the asphalt "track." For the second time, Candace Culmer '02 won the girls' event while first time participant, Mike Iggulden '01, won the boys' race.

THIRD TERM ATHLETICS MIDDLE SCHOOL

As usual, the third term in Middle School was very busy and full of excitement. Our teams all fared very well and had excellent representation at the various championships. The U/14 Rugby team made it to the final four tournament at Country Day School and finished third overall. The U/14 Tennis team had a very competitive season, saving their best matches for the championship at UCC. The U/12 Boys Softball team enjoyed a reasonably successful season and capped it off by attending the championship at UCC. The U/14 Girls Soccer and Softball teams both had near flawless seasons. Each team only lost one league game.

Two special sports awards were giving out in the third term. Lauren McCann '06 won the Jose Ignacio Award for Gymnastics. Nate Martin '05 and Michael Cho' 05 won the Rochford Trophy for Rugby. Congratulations to everyone!

The annual tennis tournament continues to be popular with the students. Alex Appleyard '05 won the open category with Ricardo Hernandez '06 and Adam Toenjes '07 winning the U/13 and U/12 categories, respectively.

This year's Sports Day was a great success with seven records being broken. If you were a past member of the Mohawk Tribe, you'd be happy to hear that they were the overall winners. The Senior winners were Brock Fowler '05 and Coraa St. Pierre '05. The Junior winners were Patrick DeRose '06 and Cait Bermuhler '06.

I would like to congratulate the winners of the R.P. Tidy Memorial Award. The male athlete of the year was Michael Cho '05 and the female athletes of the year were Ali Veffer '05 and Nicole Vigneux '05.

Finally, I would like to thank the faculty for the support that they have shown throughout the year. We have an excellent group of staff members who are all dedicated and lead by example. My hat goes off to each and every one of you!

Andrew Corolis, Athletic Director, Middle School

Adieu . . . best wishes to faculty as they retire or explore new horizons

Leanne Mladen (1994-2001) leaves Ridley to teach art at Trafalgar Castle School. Housemaster of Burgoyne Junior House and teaching core subjects, she also coached basketball, volleyball, ran the skateboarding, photography and yearbook activities as well as directing Middle School plays. Her youthful energy will be missed.

Wendy Masters '91 (1999-2001) Wendy returned to Ridley as a Residence Don for Middle School in 1999 while completing her teacher's training at Niagara University. Recently she taught math and science to grade 9 and 10 students. She is off to teach in Denver, Colorado. Best wishes and good luck in the Rockies!

Brian Taylor (1998-2001) leaves Ridley to sail the seven seas for the next few years. A native of New Zealand, Brian came to Canada to learn to fly helicopters and stayed. Middle School students have benefited from his adventures as well as his teaching: grade 5 and 6 science and grade 6 math and design/tech. We wish him clear skies, friendly winds and calm seas.

Alan Wilcox (1990-2001) came to Ridley from Stamford Collegiate in Niagara Falls and has taught English in grades nine to OAC as well as coaching girls' basketball and boys' tennis. He was faculty advisor to the Tiger Tribune and Students for Students. He plans on using his retirement to pursue his hobbies, learn some new ones, and to mountain bike and kayak in his new home in Lakefield, Ontario

Vera Wilcox (1989-2001) leaves Ridley to move to a new job at Lakefield College School. For the past twelve years she has been the housemaster of Gooderham East, Director of Activities, coach of volleyball and tennis and co-ordinated various community service activities for students. Staff and students alike will miss her smiling face and all wish her and her family the best of luck!

Richard Wright (1985-2001) the first holder of the Cronyn Chair of English and Drama, Head of the English Department, founder of the literary magazine Voices and initiator of the Literary Dinner has certainly left his mark at the school. However, many do not know that this quiet man is an author of nine books. His works have been nominated for several awards including the Giller Prize and Governor Generals Award. Richard retires with book number ten at the publisher. He will be missed by staff and students alike!

Ridley Riders win Silver in B.C.

FOR A SECOND CONSECUTIVE YEAR, THE RIDLEY EQUESTRIAN TEAM HEADS WEST!

When I tell people that Ridley won a silver medal at a horse show in British Columbia this past April they look at me in disbelief. "How did you get the horses out there?" is the reoccurring question. "Who won the race?" is another standard. Let me explain . . .

Thanks to the generosity of the Headmaster and the parents of Ted Witzel '03, Karina Aziz '04 and Aidan Tainsh '02, Ridley sent a team of three riders to complete at the 2nd Annual Inter-School Horse Show at Queen Margaret's School in Duncan, British Columbia. Duncan is located on the east coast of Vancouver Island, halfway between Victoria and Nanaimo. It is ruggedly beautiful, with a mild climate almost year 'round. The school hosts a serious riding program for its girls with numerous horse shows, both at home and away. With wonderful facilities, accomplished staff and a stable of excellent mounts to lend to the eleven competing schools from across Canada, QMs were wonderful

Tainsh with their CAIS Silver Medals

We arrived in Duncan late Wednesday afternoon, three days before the show. Since the weather was cooperating I decided that we should all go sea kayaking the next morning, whether some of us wanted to or not. We travelled the short distance from Duncan to Maple Bay and with our guide Brian from Wilderness Kayaking, ventured out into the bay and towards Salt Spring Island. We had the unbelievable luck of seeing a group of female sea lions up close both on our way out of the bay as well as coming back in. As well, we saw seals, bald eagles and a river otter along the shore. We arrived back into Duncan just in time to ride the horses the students were assigned to the show in two days time. Ted, Karina and Aidan had only an hour to get used to the horses for both their dressage and jumping tests. This time we were not so lucky with the weather, it decided to rain while the team was practising over the jumps. The next ride for the students would be show day!

With Friday free I again suggested an early morning activity that was met with groans - climb up Maple Mountain. I won't mention who stayed behind and slept, but he missed a great view, a good workout and the largest slugs any of us had ever seen. We spent the afternoon and evening in Victoria as the guests of Ted's parents, Andrea and Ted Witzel '72, who were enjoying a brief vacation on the Island. Many thanks to them for the wonderful meals and the flight in a 47 year old DeHaviland Beaver floatplane over Victoria.

Show day dawned early and sunny. The dressage tests rode in the morning with Karina our intermediate rider in first. None of our team had ridden a dressage test in competition before and had only three practice rides before we left. A dressage test is ridden in a 20 x 40 metre ring. Depending on the test, specific movements are required at letters around the ring. Some less enlightened observers have compared dressage to watching paint dry on a wall. It tests control, finesse and concentration of the rider and is an important training requirement for any horse, regardless of discipline. In the afternoon (after a lunch break and contest in which I ended up running blind-folded across the jumping ring and submerging my head underwater to bob for an apple) we had the

IN MEMORIAN

Remembering Frank Hollinrake '57

RICK COY REMINISCES ON THE PASSING OF A FRIEND AND COLLEAGUE

Frank arrived here as a grade 6 boarding student in 1949 and he never really left. Ridley became his home. He spent eight years here as a student and thirty-five as a Master in the science department. Since his retirement be continued to serve the school as Quarter Master of the Cadet Corps.

Today we all have our memories of the Frank we knew. I know there are many different perspectives represented in our Chapel today. Many of his classmates from 1957 are here as are others who knew him when he was a student. There are also staff members past and present and, of course, many former students and other friends who knew him outside of the gates of Ridley.

Today I have been asked to share some of my remembrances of Frank. I first met him in 1950. There are two stories that come to mind during the time Frank was a student here. They may offer a clue as to why he became a science teacher. While in the Lower School, Frank conducted an experiment testing the strength of the laundry bags. The test included stuffing a small boy into a big bag and then hanging it out an upper floor window. The experiment was a success. The laundry bag held and the small boy wasn't too badly traumatized. Ironically, he too went on to be a long time Ridley faculty member and a great friend of Frank's. I can't reveal who it is, but his initials are C.J.L. (Editor's Note: Chris Loat '62)

In the Upper School the experiments escalated. Frank began making wine in his room and using explosives on the fields after lights out. I don't know how he made his bombs, but they were ignited on B squad field and landed on A squad across the road. Frank was never caught at this, as he heeded the warnings of the powers that be at that time. Frank went undetected as the 'mad bomber'.

In 1966, three rookie teachers arrived in the Lower School, David Cosgrove, Mike Rice and me. Frank was a veteran of five years and was always there to offer advice, but only if you asked for it. He lived in two apartments during his time in the Lower School. One of them actually had a kitchen. Much later on, he moved into a house on Ridley Road.

He was involved in so many things in those early days. He took on extra jobs and responsibilities readily because that was Frank's way. "Something needs to be done - let's get started!"

He was extremely organized and dependable. I suppose he had to be in order to survive as a grade nine boys' Housemaster. He organized them by looking after their banking, radios, dorm inspections and even their laundry. Frank always looked after the Hallowe'en party which included games and contests. They were mayhem, but organized mayhem. He made them fun. He also was in charge of a rocket club for many years. Talk about a natural fit! Frank also ran the stationery store for the students. He was a good business man and turned a profit by selling pencils for 10¢ each or two for 25¢.

Frank's athletic commitment was usually with the league sports. He always had a way of making that experience important and enjoyable for the students. In soccer, the final "Pizza Bowl" game was hotly contested. To Frank, the outcome of these games was rather incidental. It was fair play and sportsmanship that mattered most to him.

In connection with athletics a story comes to mind to illustrate Frank's wonderful sense of humour. He wasn't the type to tell you the latest joke. His humour would surface through an off-hand comment, an observation or a quip.

First and foremost, Frank was a teacher, and a very good one.

One year a meeting was called for all hockey coaches by Dennis Hull, ex-NHL star, who was a faculty member and first team coach at the time. A new system of play was to be put into effect so that all our teams would be on the same page. Frank attended even though he didn't have to. After all, he was in charge of a non-competitive group made up of beginners or non-skaters.

Many of them came from South America. After sitting through the strategy session, we were told there were notes prepared for us and Dennis asked if there the strategy session, we were told there were notes prepared for us and Dennis asked if there were any questions. Frank raised his hand first and asked Dennis if those notes came in Spanish as well.

Frank, as we all know, took great pride in the Cadet Corps. He worked hard at it and put in endless extra house to make sure his Lower School troops were properly drilled and ready to perform.

First and foremost, Frank was a teacher and a very good one. He was innovative, dedicated, and made his classes interesting. ome of his more memorable experiments included the students heasuring their own horse power. It had to do with their body mass and how fast they could run up and down three flights of stairs. They learned how to analyze the Hollinrake sludge. One of his favourites was the volcano. This was a natural for Frank because it involved explosives. A model volcano was used to illustrate how and why it erupted. You could always tell when he was working with the volcano because you could smell it in the halls. One year the odour was particularly strong and as I headed for a coffee at recess, the smoke in the halls and the comments of the students told me that something spectacular had happened in the lab that day. When I arrived at the study, there was Frank, a few more holes in his lab coat. I asked him for an explanation, he shook his head, grimaced and replied, "Hells Bells. Too much powder."

Frank also conducted an experiment designed to teach the students just how vast our universe is. He gave them rolls of cash register tape and a scale – one inch equals so many miles and then had them roll out the paper down the long hall of the Lower School and mark on the planets. Of course, you could hear them in the hallway. Once I heard a brash young grade nine boy, who obviously liked to live on the edge, shout a question to Mr. Hollinrake. "Sir, do you think if I stood on Pluto, I could see Uranus". There were a few giggles and then a deathly silence. I knew he was on the receiving end of the Hollinrake stare. Then ank's answer came loud and clear. "Smithers, don't be a jackass. Get on with the job." I think this story proves Frank knew how to defuse an explosive situation as well as ignite one.

There was so much more to Frank. He loved his sister and brother, all of his nieces and nephews. He took great delight in his cottage and enjoyed his summers there. He was a world traveller. He loved a party and he hosted many of them. Quite often he hosted one in his apartment when he didn't expect to. You could always count on him for a drink or two after duty. The peanut dish was always full.

These are just some of my thoughts about Frank, but it is impossible to do him justice in a few paragraphs.

To me, he exemplified the school motto. He always encouraged, cared for, and supported others. He was fun to be around. He loved life and a good laugh. The Ridley community has lost a great friend. He was a wonderful person and he will be greatly missed by all who were fortunate enough to have known him.

much powder."

Equitation over Fences phase. In this the riders rode over a series of ten fences and were judged on their position, control and style. Karina, who had the most fiery mount of the group, had her hands full as her pony shied from a videographer. She managed to stay on course and control her mount but the shy cost her valuable points in an otherwise awesome ride. Both Ted and Aidan had very good rides and both placed second in their divisions. By the end of the day, with the jumping points and Aidan's 3rd place finish in dressage, we had been awarded the CAIS Silver medal, second to the host school Queen Margaret's.

I would again like to thank those who supported the idea of a Ridley team competing at the horse show, the parents and Headmaster for their generosity and Queen Margaret's for hosting such a huge undertaking. It was a memorable time for the students and me and one we will not soon forget!

"Isn't it dark down there?", they always like to ask.

"Well yes it is, actually," is the normal and obvious reply.

"So then how do you see?" "We carry lights of course." "Then what happens if your light goes out?" That's why we carry at least one, and usually two extra lights with us. It's not a mine after all, where there is usually lighting somewhere not too far away and a known map of where you are and where you can escape to. Exploring caves that nobody has ever been in is some of the last real exploration left on the planet, er, well under the planet that is. Only in the depths of the ocean are there places where humans have not been and have not even seen that and caves. You could say that caves are even more unknown in that you can't do a sonar scan beforehand like you can of the ocean bottom. They know where the bottom of the ocean is, they just haven't been to look at it. In a cave you don't know if it only goes as far as your light can see, or kilometres and kilometres more, until you actually go yourself.

If mountaineers do what they do, "because it is there," cavers do it because they hope it might be there. It is that curiosity to see what is around the next corner, and the next, and the one after that, and go where no person has gone before that drive us on. It is not a pass-time for the claustrophobic, the agraphobic, or those not wanting to get covered in mud. In fact it is not a pass-time of many, perhaps due to its lack of spandex or lycra appeal. It does though require most of the skills of a good rock climber, both in the physical movement part and in the technical use of ropes to go down and then back up vertical pitches. It also requires all the organizational skill, route-finding abilities, load carrying drudgery and teamwork of big time mountaineering expeditions to get to the bottom of a deep cave. The objective hazards such as; getting caught in a flood, having rocks fall on your head (or any other part of your anatomy for that matter), getting lost or getting struck by lightning are the same as for any serious mountain sport.

Caving still remains where climbing was about 30 years ago in terms of the numbers and types of people doing it (in Canada and the USA at least). If one dares to generalize somewhat, cavers tend to be over-educated and not into team sports. Teams of two are the preferred number and solo cavers are very rare indeed (even rarer than in climbing). Knowing that someone is there to urge caution or pull you out by your legs if you get stuck gives one the support needed to push on when you would have otherwise turned back. And pushing on into the unknown is what exploration caving is all about.

> Climbers and mountaineers travel around the globe in search of new or different things to climb. It is the same with cavers. The big draws in the caving community are either long caves or a deep cave. Anything over a few kilometres long is significant and over 10 km is starting to get big. The really big ones though are over 100 km long, with Mammoth Cave in Kentucky being the world's longest at 360++ km long. Long caves don't tend to be deep, in the vertical sense, and a special group of cavers prefers to chase the depth records instead. The original milestone in caving used to be pushing a cave 1000m deep, and after that was broken way back in the 1956 it was still 24 years before there were more than 10 one kilometre deep caves in the world. By 1989 there were 35 passing that mark and now there are over 60 kilometre deep caves with the one holding the deep record the most often being over a mile deep in France – the Réseau Jean Bernard at 1630m deep. Getting to the bottom of one of these is about as hard as getting to the top of Everest, and has been done by a lot fewer people (probably because once it has been done cavers go off to find another one instead of re-doing the same one like Everest, though admittedly at least one group a year tries to bottom Réseau Jean-Bernard).

If one checks out the longest and deepest lists for caves in the world a few countries stand out as having a lot of deep ones or long ones. Austria, Spain, France and Mexico have the most deep caves, while the USA, Russia and Mexico have the long ones (though the Russians have just managed to find the world's deepest at 1720m deep). So Mexico is the only one to rate highly in both categories and that perhaps explains why I like living in Mexico. When Cominco was looking for a geologist to go to Mexico, I thought that sounded just the right job for me. Little did I realize that Guadalajara (where we have our office) is a long way from the good caving areas in Mexico. It still takes me about as long to get to the cave as it did when I used to fly down from Toronto. At least there is a small caving area not too far from home, even if it does mean that I am now infected with histoplasmosis (a fungal lung infection, from a spore that lives in bat guano).

One of the things about low elevation caves in the tropics (like the ones near to Guadalajara) is the profusion of animal life living in the caves, be it bats or insects. Unlike Canada where there are less than a dozen different types of bats in the caves across the country, some single caves in Mexico can have up to 12 different species in the same cave! I try to avoid those kinds of caves, artly to not disturb the bats (they like to sleep in the day remember) and more to avoid the guano and what lives in or on it. Vampire bat guano is particularly smelly and yukky stuff to have to pass as it very blood rich (due to their diet) and rots quickly producing ammonia. The insects can be just as diverse in number and in size as the bats. Nobody forgets their first encounter with a tailess whip scorpion, which as its name suggests is a scorpion looking creature with no tail. It is harmless (it has no stinging tail) but the pincers can get to be the size of a small lobster on a body (+ legs) that is 30 to 40cm across. Not something you want to bump into in tight quarters. Other caves can be crawling with millipedes or just ordinary cave crickets and spiders. Much better to find the higher elevation caves with their cooler temperatures and reduced wildlife.

Going up to higher elevations in the caving areas of Mexico also usually means having to time your visits to avoid the rainy season. Few areas of Mexico receive all day light rains, like Vancouver, and tend to get it all one heavy dump often late in the afternoon. It is not uncommon to see one to two cm fall in one hour or less. With so much of the country cleared for farming or grazing there is not the original vegetation to absorb the water and it instantly flows into the nearest watercourse. Now if that watercourse happens to flow into a cave a flood pulse is quickly created, just like a flash flood in the desert. It literally becomes a wall of water anywhere from one to ten metres high. If you are unlucky enough to be in the path of one of those you are done for. So you don't go caving from June to October It is just not worth it.

"Nobody forgets their first encounter with a tailess whip scorpion"

One popular area to cave in Mexico, called Cuetzalan, doesn't follow the general rainy season pattern as it rains 300 days a year. When you notice that all the local men have custom made plastic covers for their cowboy hats you know it must rain a lot! So even in the so called "dry season" there one has to be wary about floods and it is thus no big surprise that it was there that I had my closest run in with a flood. Leaving the surface at 3pm under sunny skis I figured that we were safe that day. But two hours later down in the bottom of the cave we noticed that the river we were following had just turned brown from the fresh influx of muddy water – flood water. The big question quickly became whether we could get out past the spot where the ceiling of the cave came down to within ten centimetres of water level in a point where we were swimming in the stream. Needless to say we made out o.k., but if you would like to read the whole story check out www.cancaver.ca/int/mexico/zotz/links.html. This page also has list of other flood stories that I have collected from others that are a lot scarier than my close call.

Admitedly, not all my caving is about close calls with danger or creepy crawlers. Every once in awhile one gets the treat of coming across rooms full of the most amazing formations created by calcite precipitating out of dripping water. Stalactites (the ones that hang down) and stalagmites (the ones that point up) can come in all sizes and surface textures and grow quite quickly in the warm wet environments like Mexico. Sometimes they join together to create a column that can be ten's of metres high and over ten metres in diameter. Throw in the multitude of different crystal shapes and sizes in water filled pools and you have some of the most stunning visual delights I have seen anywhere. Even in caves where the water has long since dried up, you can get gypsum or aragonite crystals meters in length, such as the ones Lechuguilla Cave in New Mexico, is famous for (see www.deepsecrets.com) for photos of these impressive formations. I had the good fortune to do three trips in to Lechuguilla Cave camping in different places and have yet to find another cave with formations anywhere near as numerous and spectacular. But that doesn't stop me from getting out and exploring more new caves in hopes that perhaps this one will be the one to surpass Lechuguilla. Or maybe break a new depth record. Whatever the outcome it is sure to provide a good distraction from work and the office.

Chris spent seven years at Ridley, graduating in 1980. He has a B.Sc. in Geology and a M.Sc. in Exploration Geology from Queen's University in Kingston. Since graduation with his M.Sc. he has worked for Cominco Ltd as an exploration geologist in Mexico. Based in Guadalajara, he works on projects throughout the country - his first years looking for gold and more recently focusing on Zn exploration. Work for Cominco has taken him to six different countries - as far north as 75 degrees N latitude in the Arctic islands of Canada, to 43 degrees south latitude in Chile, projects at sea level in Mexico, below sea level in Canada and up to 5300m in Bolivia. Chris lives in a house on top of a dormant volcano just outside of Guadalajara with his wife Margarita and daughter Xela, who will be two in August.

Gala a Huge Success!

RECORD AMOUNT RAISED FOR ALUMNI HALL RENOVATIONS

It has been more than five years since Ridley's last gala and the evening of June 23, 2001 will certainly be one of the most remembered. Three-hundred and fifty guests descended upon the campus under clear skies and prefect temperatures to experience an evening they would not soon forget. Co-chairs of the event, Hal Gould '69 and Geoff Lind '71, the event steering committee, development office, volunteers and especially Kathy Ko who has devoted the last six months of her life to this project should be congratulated. An evening of this magnitude, with the high-level of attention to detail only happens with the assistance of many dedicated volunteers.

Guests at the Black & Orange were quickly swept into the evening by the cocktail reception with live music, the excitement of purchasing a chance at a $10,000 shopping spree at Holt Renfrew, the displays of silent and live auction items and the unparalleled decorations with a Arabian Nights theme. During dinner belly dancers entertained the crowd as well as a game called "Tops and Tails," led by Bonnie Gould (wife of Tim '74). Auctioneer Don Stewart did an excellent job, selling thirty-six live auction items in 1 1/2 hours! The last item on the list, "Blow-up Middle School" was successfully bid on by the Class of 1971 (see photo on page 3). This pyrotechnic display, complete with orange fireworks, was the cue to the band, Timmy and the Jets to start their set. Dancers stayed until the wee hours of the morning enjoying the music the

ARCHIVAL CORNER

Unearthing Ridley's Past

BURIED ON A HILLSIDE IS A LINK TO RIDLEY'S HISTORY

by Anne E. Kubu

This spring the Ridley Landscape Committee met and on the agenda was the recent discovery of remnants of a fountain and bench in a backyard on Yates Street - at the former site of Ridley College, by Nick Holmes of the geography department. Nick also mentioned in a letter to the committee that some of the original steps (pictured above to the right of the fence) leading from the Upper School to Twelve Mile Creek were still in existence in the woods beneath the school today. These steps lead to the old towpath and to a draw bridge that at one time connected the Yates Street location (Springbank) to the Lower School of the College that was built across the creek from the original site of the School.

Dog walkers and students on campus knew about the location of the steps, having used them to access the woods and trail beside the Twelve Mile Creek but most did not realize their historic significance. Erosion and the growth of trees and plants have heaved some of the steps, while others are covered by the jungle-like vegetation that thrives there. Although there are no immediate plans to restore this area, it is an interesting glance back in time at the history of the School.

As the fiscal year draws to a close and heavy machinery moves onto the campus to begin the major renovations of Alumni Hall, we celebrate the completion of an exciting and successful year in the campaign Securing the Future for Ridley College.

Before reporting on the progress I wish first to acknowledge the special efforts of Diana Taylor, Ruth Lauzon, Anne Kubu, Bryan Rose and Kathy Ko who worked so hard after the Development Office was reduced in size through the departures of Mary Bates who retired and Derek Fraser '79 who took on new and expanded duties at St. George's School in Vancouver. We will miss them both and wish them well in their 'new lives'.

ALUMNI HALL

Our last report (December 2000) indicated that the Board undertook to raise a minimum of $2 million by the end of February, 2001. A letter reporting the achievement of that benchmark was sent to the Ridley family in March. At the time of writing gifts and pledges totalling $2,800,000 have been received. Added to this sum is the $340,000 raised by the Black and Orange ... at the School event held June 23, 2001. Congratulations to co-chairs Hal Gould '69 and Geoff Lind '71, their Steering Committee, James Nesbitt (decorations) and the scores of volunteers who procured auction items, assisted with set-up and tear-down, manned auction tables or the bars and generally assisted in the presentation of a world class event in a world class setting – the Ridley campus!

Much has been accomplished but considerable work lies ahead as we move towards the goal of $6 million to finance the total project for Alumni Hall renovations. Over the next two years, the focus of the Ridley Fund and the Major Gifts Committee will be on raising the remaining $2.9 million required.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE ENDOWMENT GROWS

No less than eight classes successfully funded new bursaries this year in the second year of their pledges as they completed their commitment to the Trustees' Challenge. The Class Agents and their generous supporters of 1955, 1970, 1971, 1976, 1980, 1982, 1985, and 1988 are to be congratulated. Their work and thoughtful donations will transform the lives of deserving students now privileged to enjoy the Ridley experience. Additional funding of $640,000 was directed to endow financial assistance.

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT - CHANDRAN INSTITUTE LAUNCHED

Under the direction of Stephen Clarke, thankfully well on the road to full recovery from his health set-back, the Chandran Institute was launched in July. Populated by Ridley faculty this inaugural year, the Institute offered instruction to teachers in curriculum design, workshops on integrated subject projects and the use of Information Technology to deliver this information to students.

OR RIDLEY

FOR RIDLEY

The Institute is funded through a grant made by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Chandran. Mrs. Beverley Chandran offered the opening remarks for the Institute to the whole Ridley faculty the week before it opened. The fact that the programme was fully subscribed with a waiting list is testimony not only to the brilliance and timeliness of the content of the Institute but also to the commitment and dedication of the Ridley staff who so eagerly embraced the concept and gave up holiday time for the professional development they gained.

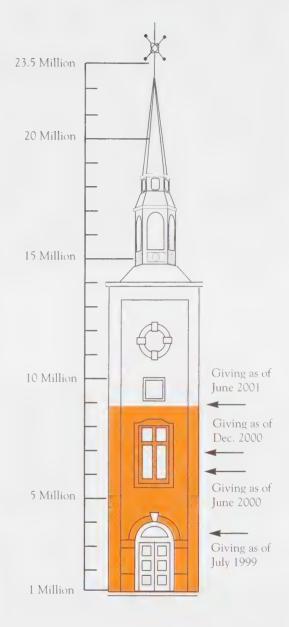

THE HEADMASTER'S CONFERENCE

On September 15 Class Agents, Phonathoners, Board and Advisory Council members, faculty and staff members, and parent representatives will gather in Toronto to discuss new initiatives challenging Ridley – the four year Ontario programme, an integrated curriculum and the use of formation Technology in the classroom, the pace of life on campus and its effect on today's students, and financing the vision of the school as we move into the 21st century. We look forward to the input of these key and keen volunteers.

Brian A. Iggulden '67

Eva Riis-Culver has accepted the position as Director of the Ridley Fund and will join the Development Office in August. Eva has enjoyed much success as a fund raiser in the health industry and knows Ridley well. Her husband Larry '66 as well as her three sons Aaron '99, Nathan '01 and Graydon '03 are all Ridleians. We welcome Eva as a colleague and look forward to working with her.

PUB NIGHTS, SQUASH, HOCKEY, CURLING AND THE TORONTO DINNER ROUND OUT A FULL SLATE OF RCA EVENTS

RCA Events

It has been an eventful couple of months for the RCA as Ridleians from far and wide have come together to laugh and to play. The schedule of RCA Events kicked off on February 1 with the University of Western Ontario Pub Night in London at Molly Bloom's Irish Pub. A healthy and spirited group of some 70 thirsty university students joined Brian Iggulden '67, Harry Hatch '67, Bryan Rose '96, Simon Hall and Derek Fraser '79 for a some drinks and munchies. A week later, Derek Fraser attended his last RCA Pub Night as O.R.s from the Toronto area gathered once again at Montana's Bar and Grille. As always, the Toronto Pub Night was well attended and a good time had by all.

The month of March was full of RCA events as well. On March 7, the Queen's University Pub Night was held at the Clark Hall Pub right on campus. Iggulden and Rose were joined again by a enthusiastic crowd of recent graduates and even one or two not-so recent grads from the Kingston area. On March 24, the RCA's Annual Curling Bonspiel, hosted by Jim Scandrett '39 and organized by the RCA's past President Debbie Bryant '89, was held at the Toronto Cricket, Skating and Curling Club. A mix of both experienced and beginner curlers took to the ice and had a wonderful afternoon. This is a fabulous event and we hope to see the numbers continue to increase for next year. The very next weekend, a handful of Ridley Alumni took to the ice again, but this time to battle old CISAA rivals in the Annual Crescent Cup Alumni Hockey Tournament. The team, consisting of a range of players from the Class of '71 to as recent as the Class of '00, played smart, tough hockey making it to the semi-finals when they lost to the eventual champions of the tournament from U.C.C.

The beginning of April witnessed the re-scheduled date for the 11th Annual Jack Aylott Memorial Squash Tournament. This year, a small, select group made its way to the Cambridge Club in downtown Toronto to take a shot at winning the Aylott Cup. At the end of a great evening squash, Joel Clark '93 was crowned this year's champion and winner of the prestigious Aylott Cup.

Toronto Dinner

well in the future.

On March 18, the RCA held its 103rd Toronto Branch

Dinner at the Albany Club in Toronto. This annual event is held to honour and celebrate the careers of members of the Ridley Family for their dedication and years of service to the School. This year's dinner saw a large group of Ridleians celebrate the retirement of Nat Caters, the 25 years of service to Ridley of Mike Scott, the moving on to other endeavours of Derek Fraser '79 and the presentation of the David A. MacLachlan Volunteer Award to Kelly Neill '81. As always, a number of entertaining anecdotes was on the menu for the evening as old stories were recounted and relived as if they happened only the day before.

Front: (L-R) Mark Brady '89, Bryan Rose '96, Sean Murphy '85, Debbie Bryant '89 and Stephen Bryant.

Congratulations to all for their accomplishments and best of luck to Nat and Derek as they move on from within the Ridley gates. We wish them

Familiar Faces, Intertesting Lives

For over 25 years Kristina Kercmar has been a familiar face to students and their parents visiting the Ridley sewing room. Her quiet demeanor hides the adventurous spirit of a young woman who took a huge risk in 1956 when, under the blanket of nightfall escaped into Austria from Tito's Yugoslavia. After ten months working on a farm in Austria she was granted an immigration visa to Canada and in July of 1957 she arrived in Winnipeg. Her first impression was how hot it was, but when the Winnipeg winter came she couldn't believe the cold! Speaking no English, she made her way on the little Polish and Ukrainian she knew and obtained work in one of Winnipeg's garment factories. Kristina spent nine years in Winnipeg. It was there she met her husband Ludwig also from Solvenia, and where her two children were born. In 1966 while visiting relatives in Ontario, she and her family traveled to the Niagara region, and impressed with the beauty, mild climate and freshness of the countryside, decided to move east.

Kristina came to Ridley in 1976 when teachers like Mike Scott, Dave Gagné, Brian Martin, and Jim McLauglin were all new-comers (not that I want to date her). She has seen hemlines rise and fall and rise again, changes in dress code and repaired countless cadet and team uniforms. Her quiet dedication to her job has served students from all over the world, whether they need a button on a shirt or a costume for a musical, Kristina Kercmar and her colleagues in the sewing room have been ready! Good luck to Kristina on her retirement.

Welcome to Chartwells

Chartwells College and University Dining Services may be a new name to many students and faculty members, but the people behind the name have been providing great food and service to Ridley College for over 35 years.

Chartwells brings together associates from Beaver Foods and Compass Group Canada to create the market leader in educational dining.

We are proud to sponsor the Black & Orange at the School!

A Member of Compass Group Canada (formerly Beaver Foods Limited)

"That child has Ridley potential!"

We have all seen them, read about them.

Young men and women in our communities who display wondrous talents and attributes.

Academic. Athletic. Artistic. Humanitarian. Spiritual.

Boys and girls that we would be proud to call our own kids. (Quite possibly they even are our own kids!)

And, often, we learn of those with terrific potential that is currently untapped. Students needing a catalyst, a positive environment and enriching experience, that will propel them into the ranks of the high achievers.

Since 1889, Ridley has been seeking out these young people. We are confident that they have what it takes to bring acclaim both to themselves and the school. The Ridley experience will help these students develop their talents under the supervision of our proficient and caring teachers. To take full advantage of our extraordinary facilities. To acquire an appreciation of the many cultures and perspectives present at Ridley. To confidently greet the challenges and opportunities which our world presents in the next millennium, as they prepare to assume roles of significant leadership.

And, despite the high cost of independent schooling, our financial assistance and scholarship programmes put a Ridley education within their grasp.

You can help shape Ridley's future by passing on to us information on these talented boys and girls in your area. Simply complete the coupon provided below, or contact the school by telephone, fax or Email via the Internet.

When you identify outstanding prospects for the school, we all benefit. Let's keep the recruitment pipeline flowing!

Last Impressions

I am afraid in this issue of the Tiger, Dr. Griffith's famous saying: "If you lose say nothing, if you win say even less," has been ignored. I have encouraged coaches to write glowing reports of their teams' successes which was not a difficult task this term. Dr. Foster in her View from the Tower, has mentioned the debaters, public speakers and School Reach teams while I have bragged of the Equestrian Team's silver medal triumph in British Columbia, encouraged Stephanie Paolone '07 to talk about her science fair win and have used various pages to chronicle the Black and Orange at the school and its success, perhaps not a competition but a fund-raising triumph for sure!

It is so easy to take for granted the day to day accomplishments that surround you at Ridley. They are part of the fabric of the school and you come to expect wins (and losses) everyday. What we have to remember is the work, often unseen, that goes on to ensure this success. Teachers and staff at Ridley don't work a 9-5 day. They coach teams, take part in activities, advise students, sit on committees, do house duty until late at night and volunteer their services, often sacrificing their personal life for that of the School. As a result, Ridley thrives from the commitment of all of these people.

The campus is almost quiet now. Gone are the students, replaced by the summer groups and construction crews working on Alumni Hall. Many of the faculty are attending the Chandran Institute this summer (see next Tiger for details), while others have escaped to lawn chairs with a good book. The cycle of the school year is complete and taking advice from Dr. Griffith, it's time to say even less.

Anne Kuba

The editor of the Tiger reminds everyone that kindly submit photos, that low resolution JPEG's do not print well (although they look good on a monitor) and for that reason some of the photos submitted to the Ridley Tiger cannot appear in print.

Dear Anne,

Have just received the Winter 2001 issue of "The Ridley Tiger". Have always enjoyed reading this publication in order to keep abreast of the latest happenings at our Alma Mater.

As a member of the class of '54 and living in Brazil, which makes difficult any social relationship with the majority of my classmates, I often have trouble in recognizing them from those pictures published nowadays in the magazine. I make reference at "Home Coming Weekend" (page 13) where you depict a few members of the class of '55. I would appreciate their names for my own recollection.

Keep up the good work in informing us on what goes on at Ridley and its Alumni.

Thank you and best regards,

Randolph S. Haynes '54
